Executive Summary

Introduction

The Tarrant County Maternal and Infant Health Coalition was formed in response to significant disparities in maternal and infant health outcomes across the county, especially among Black and Hispanic mothers. Texas accounts for roughly 400,000 births annually (over 27,000 in Tarrant County alone). The need for coordinated, equitable, and accessible maternal care is urgent. The Coalition seeks to strengthen systems of care by uniting hospitals, nonprofits, referral networks, and community partners around a shared goal: ensuring that every mother and infant can thrive before, during, and after birth. This work emphasizes the significance of community partnerships, effective communication, and trust-building in closing care gaps and enhancing long-term health outcomes.

Executive Summary

Situation Analysis

96% of mothers accessed prenatal care, and 89% attended well-child visits. 1 in 5 mothers delayed prenatal care until after the first trimester, and many reported limited awareness of available services. Referral systems are inconsistent (86% of providers refer out for services), yet 75% are unaware of what happens after a referral is made, revealing major breakdowns in post-referral coordination. Social determinants of health intensify these challenges: economic stress, food insecurity, childcare barriers, and employment strain are among the most frequently cited factors affecting maternal well-being. Mental health needs are also under-met, as less than half of mothers needing emotional or psychological support during pregnancy received it. Together, these findings illustrate a fragmented landscape where resources exist but are not consistently accessed or connected.

Executive Summary

Target Audience

The primary audience for this campaign includes expectant parents and caregivers living in the most at-risk Tarrant County zip codes, particularly those facing high economic stress and limited access to coordinated care. Interviews reveal that 85% of mothers surveyed fell below the federal poverty level, and a majority were Black or Hispanic, with many Spanish-speaking households experiencing additional access and knowledge barriers. Many pregnancies were unplanned, 60%, highlighting the need for accessible information delivered early and consistently. This audience often trusts informal networks, such as family and friends, over formal systems, and typically relies on programs like WIC, SNAP, and Medicaid as entry points. Therefore, interventions must be culturally responsive, language-accessible, and simple to navigate for families juggling financial strain, mental health challenges, and childcare responsibilities.

Executive Summary

Campaign Strategy

Our campaign strategy focuses on increasing awareness, simplifying navigation, and strengthening connections to existing maternal and infant resources. Leveraging the Parent Pass app, the campaign aims to guide parents toward vetted services while supporting partners in creating a more seamless, closed-loop referral system. Messaging will emphasize empowerment, clarity, and trust: offering a single, reliable pathway for accessing prenatal care, postpartum support, mental health resources, childcare programs, and nutritional assistance. Targeted outreach will be delivered through advertisements that meet parents where they are, in their preferred channels. By aligning the voices of mothers and local organizations, the campaign fosters a unified ecosystem of care that is designed to reduce barriers, improve outcomes, and ensure that every pregnant individual feels supported.

Problem Statement

Lack of awareness and resource barriers in Tarrant County delay early prenatal care among mothers, contributing to infant mortality rates that remain among the highest in Texas

SWOT

Strengths

Available Tools & Resources

- Proven science-based research
- Grant funding to support advertising and future growth of campaign and messaging
- Map of resources through the coalition partners
 - Parent Pass App
 - Closed-loop system of care
 - Connect mothers to 600+ community resources
 - Help line
 - Iron pills

Established Support & Partnerships

- Support from local hospitals (6 health systems)
 - Medicaid renewal
- Community interest
 - Local Engagement with Parent Pass App

Localized Focus

- Tailored resources and partnerships specific to Tarrant County help address community needs.

SWOT

Weaknesses

Not Reaching the Target Audience

- Lacks Campaign / Marketing Materials
 - No website or central place to find info
- Mothers are not accessing the resources available
 - Mothers lack education and awareness initiatives
 - 65% of mothers reported issues with navigating and understanding the healthcare system as a significant barrier

Needs Further Explanation

- Data lacks explanation/correlation to the main issue (ex: mental health impacts)
- Mission statement and vision on how to fix the problem is not evident

Referral Gap

- 75% of people do not follow up on their referrals, and the outcome of those referrals remains unknown

SWOT

Opportunities

Funding & Strategies for Campaign Materials

- Out of House advertising: Public transit, Billboards
- Government Support: relations, and access to journalists, community events, and industries
- Digital space: social media, websites, TV

Community Outreach

- Expanding community partnerships
 - Nonprofits, churches, hospitals, and schools
- Community workshops or events to destigmatize prenatal + mental health care

Growth in Resources

- Availability of some prenatal care
 - Trusted partnerships with local nonprofits, schools, and clinics

SWOT

Threats

Access Challenges

- Social determinants of health
- Finances in the target audience (Rising healthcare costs)
- Lack of public transportation
- Language and cultural barriers
- Competing priorities for parents
 - Jobs, education, childcare
- Lack of security

Stigma & Shame

- Unplanned pregnancy- figuring out later
- Lack of representation from healthcare providers
- Traumatic experiences women face: domestic violence, incarceration, death of loved ones
- Untreated mental health challenges
- Population growth in Tarrant County

Creative Brief

Situation

Nearly 2 out of every 100 new born babies in Tarrant County do not survive past their first year. Mothers face issues such as lack of documentation, poverty, domestic abuse and food insecurity that create fear around accessing medical health for themselves and their babies. All mothers care about the well being of their children and worry about their families. However, some women face extra barriers when seeking care, leading to added stress while pregnant. We are communicating to let mothers in Tarrant County know their situations are heard. To bring mothers and newborns the care and support they need to not only survive but thrive.

Creative Brief

Communication Objectives

- Increase the trust between pregnant women and healthcare providers by 30% within the next three months.
- Increase the amount of women receiving maternal care by 15% in the next year.
- Get 3 additional non-profits involved or interested in the Tarrant County Maternal and Infant Health Coalition within the next year.
- Increase the number of pregnant women who receive prenatal care in Tarrant County by 25% in the next two years.

Key Insight

Mothers of all backgrounds care about and love their children; however, some women feel threatened and entrapped by barriers such as not being documented, domestic abuse and poverty, making them afraid ask for help in regard to themselves and their families.

Creative Brief

Target Audience

The Undocumented:

Sofia is pregnant with her first child. She and her husband recently immigrated to the United States, but are both undocumented. Sofia is excited to have her first child and wants to do whatever possible to ensure her and the baby are safe and healthy. However, Sofia is scared of accessing medical care. She is fearful providers or hospitals will ask her for insurance or other identifying information.

The Abused:

Olivia will soon welcome her third child. She loves her children and wants to do what is best for her family. However, Olivia is facing domestic abuse. She is ashamed and fearful to access help. She worries of retaliation from her abuser if she goes to a doctor or hospital.

The Community:

Holly works in community engagement at her local church. She is aware that mothers may be facing barriers to healthcare, but is unsure of how to best help them.

Creative Brief

Target Audience Map

This map highlights specific zip codes within Tarrant County that fall inside the outlined service area for the campaign. The red boundary shows the overall region being targeted, while the blue-boxed zip codes (76006, 76011, 76012, 76014, 76015, 76018, and others) represent priority neighborhoods for outreach, resource distribution, and campaign messaging. By identifying these zip codes, the map helps guide where advertisements can effectively reach expectant parents and maximize the impact of The Care as You Carry campaign.

Creative Brief

Positioning

Current - Healthcare system that is intimidating for mothers. Resources are available but are inaccessible and do not span through the barriers mothers face.

Desired - An approachable, “easy to navigate” network of resources for mothers. A system that empower mothers in Tarrant County to seek and receive help.

Creative Brief

Attitude

Women feel fearful and distrustful towards medical systems. This is due to intimidating and unwelcoming environments and lack of representation.

Many women feel threatened by the possible repercussions of accessing the resources they need.

Women feel misunderstood. Women in Tarrant County care about their children and want what is best for their families. Often a lack of care is not due to a lack of effort.

Pregnant women in Tarrant County love their children, but are unaware or lack access to healthcare for themselves.

GOST

Goals

- Find ways to support mothers as they navigate the barriers they may face
- Let mothers know we see them and their struggles and will help
- Provide care that is hard to access
- Reduce fear and build trust around accessing medical help

GOST

Objectives

- Increase the number of community health events for women
- Increase the number of pregnant women who receive prenatal care in Tarrant County by 25% in the next two years
- Get 3 additional non-profits/businesses involved or interested in the Tarrant County Maternal and Infant Health Coalition within the next year

GOST

Strategies

- Empowering and encouraging messages
- Community-centered - spaces where mothers already have trust
- Partnering with existing members of the coalition

GOST

Tactics

- Billboard Ads
- Gas Station Ads
- Well Women Workshops (health fair events targeting moms, pregnant women, and young women of birthing years)
- Grocery Cart Ads

Mood Board 1

Mood Board 1

Creative Rational

Every mother wants to care for her baby as best as possible, but it becomes difficult when she does not receive the support she needs. When barriers limit access to care for herself, it affects not only her health but also her child's. The coalition's work helps bridge this gap by providing the care and resources mothers need to flourish.

The tagline "Care as You Carry" reflects that mission and carries a double meaning. It recognizes that mothers carry in many ways: carrying the physical weight of pregnancy, holding their babies in their arms, and bearing emotional and mental responsibilities each day. The phrase also serves as a reminder that while mothers carry so much, they deserve to be carried through care, love, and community in return.

The campaign draws inspiration from themes of growth and connection, portraying motherhood as a flower that thrives when rooted in support. Each petal symbolizes a layer of care, and together they form a garden that represents collective strength. The message is simple: when we root for each other, we all grow stronger.

The visuals feature mothers holding their babies surrounded by soft pinks and greens that convey warmth, renewal, and hope. Together, these elements communicate that motherhood is not meant to be carried alone; it is meant to bloom within a community of care.

Mood Board 2

REAL STRUGGLES.
REAL SUPPORT.

Mood Board 2

Creative Rational

The concept line “Real Struggles, Real Support” embodies the authentic and compassionate connection we aim to build with mothers. It reflects our understanding of the deep emotional toll mothers face head-on every day. This idea recognizes the daily realities that may not be pretty, but are real.

Our goal is to validate those real struggles and position our brand as a trusted source of genuine, hands-on support that meets each mother where she is. By highlighting honesty and empathy, we’re showing that vulnerability is a tool that guides us to understand their needs — not something that should be hidden.

We want mothers to feel seen, heard, and supported with absolutely no feelings of embarrassment, fear, or loneliness.

Mood Board 3

Mood Board 3

Creative Rational

To help overcome the shame mothers feel, we plan to show encouraging messages that build mothers up and instill confidence in them. We want every mother to know they are seen and are worthy of receiving care, despite the shame and other barriers they may face. While we may be unable to remove every challenge mothers face, we want them to know that asking for help is not a sign of weakness, and they deserve to feel supported.

The concept line for this moodboard directly and clearly tells mothers they are worth it. The line also gives a nod to Fort Worth, where the campaign will be placed. The images in the moodboard show women in all stages of motherhood. While pregnant mothers are our main target market, empowerment is not something that should start and end while a woman is pregnant. We want our target audience to know they are supported throughout their journey as a mother.

The colors and images for this moodboard are bright and carry a happy feeling. While we understand the struggles of moms, we want to show positive images and messaging to show mothers the joy that comes from having a support system.

Mood Board 4

Care as you carry.

Mood Board 4

Creative Rational

Every mother wants to give her baby the best care possible, but that becomes difficult when she does not receive the care she deserves herself. Barriers such as access, affordability, and awareness often stand in the way of maternal well-being, affecting both mothers and their babies.

The coalition's mission is to bridge this gap by ensuring that mothers are supported, seen, and cared for throughout their journey. The tagline "Care as You Carry" speaks to that purpose. It acknowledges that mothers carry not only their babies but also immense emotional, physical, and mental loads. Through access to trusted care, essential supplies, and compassionate providers, the coalition helps lighten that burden and empowers women with the strength to nurture themselves as they nurture others.

The visuals highlight doctors offering supportive care, mothers holding their babies, and essential postpartum items that symbolize practical, tangible support. A soft palette of pinks, neutrals, and blues evokes calm, trust, and compassion, reinforcing the message that when mothers are cared for, families thrive.

Final Mood Board

Final Mood Board

Creative Rational

This mood board visually represents the heart of our message: Care grows when women feel supported, held, and seen. The collage format mirrors community, many pieces coming together to create something stronger than the sum of its parts. Each image overlaps with another to symbolize shared experiences, collective support, and the belief that no mother carries alone.

Our color palette, featuring shades of green and rose tones, draws directly from nature. These hues evoke a sense of calmness, growth, and nurturing energy, reinforcing our mission to create a safe and uplifting environment for mothers. The floral elements are a visual metaphor for care taking root: Just as flowers thrive when tended to, mothers and infants flourish with community support.

The imagery centers on real connection: hands holding flowers, mothers holding babies, and caregivers holding each other. “Care as you carry” becomes both literal and emotional: While a mother carries her baby, the community carries her. The mood board expresses a world where women are rooted in care, kindness, and collective strength.

Gas Station Fridge Cling

Tactic 1

Gas Station Fridge Cling

Tactic 1

Rational

The “Showering You With Care” advertisement is designed to symbolize nourishment, growth, and support for expectant mothers. The floral droplets pouring from a watering can visually reinforce the message that healthy moms grow healthy babies, while the silhouette of the pregnant woman adds emotional strength and inclusivity. The soft, floral background and bright pink accents create a nurturing, optimistic tone that aligns with the ParentPass mission of providing accessible maternal-health resources. Overall, the design combines warmth, beauty, and clarity to encourage mothers to seek support through ParentPass.App.

Placement

This ad will be placed on a cooler door inside a 7-Eleven in ZIP code 76018, located at 1900 E. Sublett Rd near New York Ave, a high-need area identified for elevated infant mortality rates. This location is intentional because 7-Eleven is a Texas-founded, community-rooted brand with heavy, consistent foot traffic, ensuring the message reaches a large and diverse audience. Cooler doors naturally draw attention, making them ideal for health-focused interventions that need strong visibility. By placing the ad in a frequently visited and easily accessible store within the targeted ZIP code, the campaign delivers maternal-health support directly to the community that needs it most.

Billboard

Tactic 2

Rational

The “Care as You Carry” billboard captures attention in high-traffic areas of Tarrant County to reach expectant and new mothers. The message, “Care as you carry, we’ll help you do both,” signifies the two most important responsibilities mothers face: nurturing themselves and their baby throughout pregnancy and postpartum. This message emphasizes the importance of caring for both mother and baby, pre- and postpartum, while also encouraging action: downloading the ParentPass app for guidance, resources, and a supportive community. We aim to present ParentPass as a trusted resource that supports mothers every step of the way.

The brightly colored flowers surrounding the mother symbolize growth, life, and natural care, while the black-and-white silhouette keeps her as the emotional focal point. The bold headline ensures readability from a distance, with the supporting line reinforcing reassurance and partnership.

Placement

We plan to display this billboard in a high-traffic area within or near our target zip codes in the greater Arlington, Tarrant County area: 76006, 76011, 76012, 76014, 76015, and 76018.

We have found the following billboards as viable options for purchase:

- Permanent Bulletin / Regular Ad (14' 0" x 48' 0") @ Wet N Wild Way (Arlington) (Alluvit Listing ID 38742)

Both events aim to educate, provide, and inspire women to have healthy babies by bringing empathetic healthcare providers and experts to speak and charities to donate essential items. These events will be easily accessible to the target population, meeting them where they are. It creates a space where women can be seen and heard.

The wellness workshop is open to all moms and future moms, in an area easily accessible to them. There will be childcare and food provided to ensure all women are cared for and able to attend. The pregnancy pop-ups will include various tents and items provided by charities, businesses, and the coalition. Volunteers will help ease fears and connect people to resources for prenatal care. This aims to minimize the obstacles expecting mothers face to accessing care.

The incentive to come will be providing essential items for moms and babies, which helps relieve some of their stress in having to prepare for a baby. Items that will be provided include: free iron pills, maternity clothing, and newborn necessities such as diapers and formula.

Women will learn how to keep themselves and their babies healthy. It will foster a sense of community and empowerment.

Expected Outcomes

The Care as You Carry campaign is designed to strengthen awareness, trust, and engagement among expectant parents in Tarrant County. Key outcomes include increased understanding of available maternal resources, higher utilization of tools like Parent Pass, and improved access to prenatal vitamins, nutrition support, and community health programs. By creating welcoming, floral-inspired visuals and clear messaging, the campaign aims to encourage earlier and more consistent prenatal care, while establishing the Tarrant County Maternal & Infant Health Coalition as a reliable, supportive partner throughout pregnancy.

Evaluation Strategy

To measure campaign effectiveness, we will use both digital and community-based metrics. Digital evaluation will include tracking QR code scans, landing-page traffic, time spent on informational pages, and engagement across social media and mobile platforms. Physical placements such as grocery cart ads, billboards, and print materials will be assessed through impression data and distribution reach. In addition, partner clinics and community organizations will help gather feedback through short surveys, referral numbers, and event attendance. Together, these diverse metrics will provide a holistic view of awareness, behavior change, and resource adoption.

Conclusion

Care as You Carry reinforces the Coalition's commitment to supporting pregnant individuals with compassion, empowerment, and accessible resources.

By bridging education, community connection, and practical tools, the campaign aims to promote healthier pregnancies and strengthen maternal confidence across Tarrant County. Ultimately, the initiative helps ensure that every baby has the best possible start, because flourishing infants begin with flourishing care for the ones who carry them.

Subject: Maternal Health Questionnaire

Dear [Church Name],
I hope this email finds you well.

We are seniors at Texas Christian University partnering with the Tarrant County Maternal and Infant Health Coalition to help prevent infant mortality. Tarrant County has one of the highest infant mortality rates in Texas, and your organization is located in a zip code where these rates are especially high.

As part of our research, we are gathering insights to better understand the barriers pregnant women face and the resources that could make a meaningful difference. The information you share will directly support the Coalition's efforts to create solutions and campaigns that improve pregnancy and infant outcomes.

Would you be willing to answer a few brief questions, or connect us with someone at your organization who could? Your perspective will be invaluable in shaping strategies to protect mothers and babies in our community.

Thank you for your time and for the impact your church already has in serving the community. Together, we can save lives.

Please give me a call or email back with the best person to contact.
